Course No. 180
Course Title: Canadian Literature
Semester: Fall

Please evaluate the course. (You might consider class readings, discussions, lectures, and activities; the intellectual challenge of the course; changes in your work over the semester; the value of what you learned.)

The class was very discussion-based, which I consider to be a plus. Professor Martin is an effective discussion leader, prodding us along when we stall with questions. In addition, there was a lecture element which put much of the material in a historical and cultural context.

Please evaluate the instructor. (You might consider the instructor's preparation for class; interactions with students in class; quality of the instruction; feedback on your work; and availability outside class.)

In addition to what was mentioned above, Professor Martin is very knowledgeable about his subject, always able to ~~answer~~ answer questions.

Please evaluate the work you put into this course. (You might consider the quality of your written work; your contributions to group and class discussions; and your commitment to the course.)

I came in late a bit, which I regret, but otherwise I contributed to the best of my ability.

I really enjoyed this course. I thought that book selection was really great & showed ~~a range of~~ a lot about Canadian literature. I thought that it seemed a little rushed, ~~th~~ with the quickness we spoke about all the books, but I really enjoyed reading all of them.

Please evaluate the instructor. (You might consider the instructor's preparation for class; interactions with students in class; quality of the instruction; feedback on your work; and availability outside class.)

I thought that Paul was a great professor. He always was prepared & seemed excited to be here & really interested in what he was teaching, which made me more interested. He was really understanding & would go out of his way to give extra help.

Please evaluate the work you put into this course. (You might consider the quality of your written work; your contributions to group and class discussions; and your commitment to the course.)

Since there were so many books, I spent a lot of time reading. However they were not impossible to get through & were all enjoyable.

This was a course that, after I read the 1st book, I thought that would be my favorite. Then I ~~g~~ read the 2nd and quickly learned I can't jump to assumptions. The books we read and the discussions orientated around them were done so well.

Overall, I enjoyed most of the novels we read this semester, and they were all extremely thought-invoking. Discussions were stimulating, but I personally think that any class discussion would benefit by putting the chairs in a circle or semi-circle. Lastly, I wish we read the books a little slower so we had more time to discuss them to their entirety.

I loved this class and learned a considerable amount. I was happy with the book we were assigned to read. Except "Next Episode" horrible confusing boring. The rest of the novels were interesting and I learned a lot about Canadian history through them. The blog was a good way to have our own addition to the class.

This course used some of ~~the~~ the most important pieces of modern literature. The works chosen ~~was~~ covered a broad spectrum of styles and topics. They also worked in chronological order. So it covered a lot of modern history and modern post modern literature evolution.

This has probably been one of my favorite courses I've taken so far at UVM. I really enjoyed how engaging Paul made this class (both during actual lectures but also through the online blog postings). My only complaint was that I wish we'd done less books (4 or 5) not because we couldn't get through all 7 but because I feel like there is so much we didn't get to cover for some of the books because

This course was interesting b/c I never realized how much literature in the U.S. was strictly U.S. lit.

I don't think it's fair to ask students to have an entire book read by the time we discuss it, especially when the teacher moves through the book in a linear sectional matter

The course was good and the subject matter was interesting. The only complaint is the amount that there is to read. I know I had trouble keeping up especially when we were expected to read a 400 page novel over the course of a weekend. It was tough for me because I work on weekends and I had other ~~work~~ homework. Also online assignments are always tough because they are not concrete. Instead I would suggest having a page long essay due for each book.

University of Vermont
Department of English

Instructor: Dr. Paul Martin
Course No. 180
Course Title: ENES
Semester: Fall

Please evaluate the course. (You might consider class readings, discussions, lectures, and activities; the intellectual challenge of the course; changes in your work over the semester; the value of what you learned.)

I really enjoyed the books we read this semester for this course. Although there were many times when I found myself falling behind however, with better planning, the work is definitely manageable.

Please evaluate the instructor. (You might consider the instructor's preparation for class; interactions with students in class; quality of the instruction; feedback on your work; and availability outside class.)

I consider myself very fortunate to have taken one of Dr. Martin's English courses. Paul was always prepared for class and his feedback on essays was always extremely helpful. His flexibility with assignment deadlines made the course manageable.

Please evaluate the work you put into this course. (You might consider the quality of your written work; your contributions to group and class discussions; and your commitment to the course.)

Great books - the ^{number of} ways in which they were inherently connected were uncanny. 3 books in this course are among the best 5 books I've read in the last year.

Please evaluate the instructor. (You might consider the instructor's preparation for class; interactions with students in class; quality of the instruction; feedback on your work; and availability outside class.)

Paul Martin is amazing! He is intelligent - he knows everything about these books, and teaches them in a way that makes you actually want to read them. Students get involved more so than w/ most ENG professors b/c of his.

It's been a trying semester, I wish I could take this class again! Still, I've done all the reading (all, which is rare) and that is a direct result of Paul's teaching.
